

SAVING THE NEWS: DENVER AND THE FUTURE OF JOURNALISM

Journalism is in trouble.

Denver citizens know this better than anyone.

Since the Rocky Mountain News closed, Denver has been at the center of the debate over the future of news in America.

On Sept. 16, concerned citizens, journalists, policymakers and community leaders will come together to discuss what policies we need — and what actions we can take — to foster quality journalism in Denver and beyond.

Come make your voice heard at this dynamic community forum and help build a national campaign to save the news.

PRESENTERS INCLUDE:

- Polly Baca, Co-Chair of the Colorado Latino Forum and a former State Senator
- Laura Frank, co-founder, Rocky Mountain Investigative News Network
- Wick Rowland, President and CEO, Colorado Public Television, KBDI-TV/12
- David Sirota, Nationally syndicated weekly newspaper columnist and bestselling author
- John Temple, former editor, president and publisher, Rocky Mountain News
- Craig Aaron, Free Press
- And more...

Wednesday, Sept. 16, 2009

6:30pm to 9:30pm

Colorado History Museum

1300 Broadway, Denver

www.SaveTheNews.org/Denver

For more information call 877.888.1533 x204 or e-mail jstearns@freepress.net.

Co-sponsored by
IWantMyRocky.com
We lost the paper. Help us save the news.

This event is not sponsored by the Colorado Historical Society, and does not reflect the views of the Colorado Historical Society, its employees or sponsors.